Threat Of Death Penalty By German Court Martial For Aiding Allied Airmen

LONDON, Feb. 26: Field-Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt, Commander-in-Chief of the German forces in France, has issued the following order to the French people which was read over the Paris radio:

DEATH PENALTY

"It is strictly forbidden to give refuge to British, American or other Allied pilots, who are shot down over France and come down by parachute or who are rescued from their planes.

Persons are also forbidden to pick up war material and other items dropped by the Allies over France. Similarly it is forbidden to touch Allied planes shot down over France.

Frenchmen, who fail to obey these orders will be handed over to German military courts and severe punishment will be inflicted and in serious cases even the death penalty will be imposed.

Everybody must inform the nearest German army post or French police station of Allied planes or parachutists coming down. Failure to do so will also be punished. Rewards, however, will be offered to persons, who give correct information to the authorities.

A few minutes earlier a German radio reporter broadcasting from the French coast declared: "British saboteurs are active in the region of Germany's Atlantic wall."—Reuter.

BEWARE OF RED HERRING OF INFLATION

Sir Purushottamasdas On Financing Of 10,000 Crore Plan

SURAT, Feb. 27: "India is at the brink of an economic revolution in order to meet the demands of the right lines, proper planning is necessary and the 10,000 crore scheme is an effort on this count," declared Sir Purushottamasdas Thakurdas, discussing the 15 year plan in an interview to the Associated Press.

The plan as propounded, Sir Purushottamasdas went on, has laid down the fundamentals which cannot be altered. The details can be discussed and altered in. As a matter of fact, the details cannot be effectively discussed at present. Such details as to whether agriculture or industry should form the main part of the scheme should be decided by the Government in power at the time in consultation with the legislature and the supreme Economic Advisory Council. The latter body, he said, should be statutory from year to year.

As to the financing of the plan the country will find the ways and means in plenty. There need not be raised any red herring of inflation.

As to the criticism that the plan is to serve the capitalists and not the poor, he said "everybody wants to be a capitalist but does not say so".

Asked about the state of State control necessary for the success of the plan, Sir Purushottamasdas said that this was a detail to be settled by the Government in vogue at the time of maturity of the plan.

He believed that the present state of things in India could not continue for long. Nature would assert herself and what the weaker people were not able to do, nature could help them to do.

"The main question of the day," he stated in conclusion, "is the condition of the poor and middle class people. Their struggle for existence is growing more and more difficult and hard every day."

Sir Purushottamasdas is leaving for Delhi to-night.—A. P.

PURSHOTTAMDAS ON 10,000 CRORE PLAN

SURAT, Feb. 26: Sir Purushottamasdas Thakurdas was felicitated this evening for his services to his native city—Surat—and to his country, when addresses and cautions were presented to him by the Surat Chamber of Commerce, the Surat Weaving Association and the Surat Jari Association. The addresses recalled how Sir Purushottamasdas worked for the improvement of the country and his recent services for the jari and cotton industries in Surat.

In the course of his reply Sir Purushottamasdas referred to the ten thousand crore plan and said "some people ask whether the country can afford a plan which costs ten thousand crores. My question is whether it can afford to do nothing. He said that the Government should prepare some such plan and work according to it."

CAN INDIA AFFORD?

Sir Purushottamasdas referred to the question asked by some people "can India afford a 10,000 crore scheme?" These persons, he said, should note two things. Firstly, all the 10,000 crores will not be needed, even at the start. They are to be spent in the course of 15 years, and ways and means can be easily found out. Secondly, they should ask themselves, "can we afford to do nothing at all?"

If they reply "yes," then, he said, those persons did not realise the seriousness of the economic situation in the country.—A. P.

President Roosevelt states that the American armed forces are short of approximately 200,000 men.

President Roosevelt's statement added: "The crucial campaigns of this year will determine both the length of the war and the price in men and goods. Big Debit For Nazis In Air War

LONDON, Feb. 27: An estimate of the comparative efforts of the British and American air forces and the Luftwaffe since Saturday, February 19, indicates that the Allies sent 26 aircraft over the Reich for every German plane that crossed the British coast in the Luftwaffe stepped up activity against London.

The Allies greatest week of aerial bombardment has smashed or badly battered nine vital centres of German aircraft production and kindred industries and cost the Luftwaffe 603 fighters shot down against the Allied loss of 417 planes.

The Luftwaffe's ability to defend the skies over the Reich is being seriously sapped.

One of them was the retired Field Marshal Fekethalmi and the others, General Joseph Grassy, Colonel Lazlo Deak and police Captain Martin Zildi.

The four accused fled to Germany and the Hungarian Government had demanded their extradition from Hitler.—Reuter.

INDIA'S C-IN-C. IN POONA

Visits To Various Training Centres And Casualty Hospital

POONA, Feb. 27. Continuing his tour in the Bombay Presidency, General Sir Claude Auchinleck, Commander-in-Chief in India, spent a large proportion of his time in Poona and the surrounding area with the medical services.

The men and officers of the Medical Services are just as important a part of the Army as the men and officers of any other services," he told a parade of Doctors, recently commissioned and N.C.O.s, preparing for promotion at the Army Medical Training Centre.

"If the soldier knows that he will get proper treatment should he become a casualty, he will go into battle with much better spirit and I rely on you to become as efficient as you possibly can."

At the I.M.H. he spoke to a number of men of the Indian Army wounded during the victorious North African campaign.

Gen. Auchinleck inspected a British signal unit which has seen service in Greece, Crete, Iraq and Iran. Two of this unit's vehicles caught his eye. They were his own signal truck and cipher office in the Western Desert when he halted Rommel's advance on Cairo at El-Alamein.

Nearly an hour was spent with the Air Force at the Officers' and Cadets' Training Centre.

Following an inspection of the Department of Military Studies at the Wadia College, where he stood with the students for the news-reel camera, he visited Officer Cadets' training in the Indian Armoured Corps under training.

He also inspected men of the West African forces.

A strenuous two-day visit culminated in a tour of the canteens for the troops in Poona.—A. P.

NEW DELHI, Feb. 27. On February 26, our troops, attacking from the north and south, occupied Pt. 315, an important hill feature which dominates the area near the eastern exit of the Ngakyedauk Pass, says to-day's Allied war communiqué.

The last organised body of Japanese in the rear of 7th Indian Division has been driven further to the east where they are attempting to hold hill features in the Awanbvin area.

Further to the north on the Mayu range mopping up operations continue against the remaining scattered parties of the Japanese forces which raided the Bawli road. East of the Kalapanzin some Japanese southward movement still appears to be taking place.

RED ARMY CAPTURES PORKHOV

Drive For White Russian Capital

MOSCOW, February 26. Porkhov has been captured, it is officially announced. Porkhov is the last town on the east-west highway and railway to Pskov.

The supplement to the Soviet 'communique' says that in engagements in the Pskov direction which resulted in the capture of Porkhov and Novoselye, over 1,500 Germans were killed.

Loknya in the Kalinin region was occupied in a night battle, in which over 700 Germans were killed.

In the fighting west of Novo Sokolniki, Soviet troops in one area penetrated the Germans' rear and broke into a village at night occupied by a German infantry company. The Germans were so surprised that none managed to escape.

LUFTWAFFE RESERVES CALLED OUT

Reuter's staff correspondent in Moscow cables:

The German Command has thrown in Luftwaffe reinforcements in a bid to check the Red Army's advance on Pskov. The three-pronged advance on Pskov is in full swing. Soviet forces are some 15 miles away from it to the north of Pskov and the east and 30 miles to the east at points between the railways from Luga and Dno, and on the Novgorod-Pskov highway. Gen. Gromov's men are pushing on rapidly after capturing Porkhov, which is the last town of any importance on the Pskov road and the last railway junction before the border, which is 26 miles away at this point. Soviet troops in this sector are also at the approaches to Pustigka, which is 30 miles west of Novo Sokolniki.

Red Army spearheads driving westwards from Novo Sokolniki are today within 30 miles of Idritsa which is the centre of a series of highways covering the approaches to Latvia and the last railway junction before the border, which is 26 miles away at this point. HIGH COURT

Corporator Challenges
Legality Of Taxes(Before the Hon. Mr. Justice Chagla)
Mahomedbhai I. Rowji .. Plaintiff.
Versus
The Municipal Corporation
of Bombay & Another .. Defendants.

The plaintiff, a member of the Bombay Municipal Corporation, challenged the legality of the rates of the water-tax and the halakhor-tax levied by the Bombay Municipal Corporation for the years 1941-42 and 1942-43. He contended that under the City of Bombay Municipal Act of 1926, these taxes could be levied at a certain percentage of the rateable value, but the water-tax must only be for expenditure in relation to water-supply, and the halakhor-tax can only be levied to meet the expenditure for halakhor services. He submitted that the water-tax levied was 3 3/4 per cent of the rateable value and the budgeted revenue from it for 1941-42 was Rs. 82,10,500 against an estimated expenditure of only Rs. 68,59,141 for that year. From the halakhor-tax of 3 per cent the budgeted revenue for the same year was Rs. 38,56,000 against an estimated expenditure of Rs. 30,80,482. The plaintiff contended that the surplus from these taxes was knowingly used by the Municipality for other purposes and sued for a declaration that the water-tax and halakhor-tax levied and recovered for the years 1941-42 and 1942-43 was ultra vires and illegal, that the proper rate of the water-tax for those years should be 1 1/3 per cent and of the halakhor-tax 2 1/2 per cent and prayed for a refund of the amounts levied by the Municipality in excess of those rates during those years.

To defendant-Municipality disputed the fact that there was a surplus as alleged and submitted that the revenue from the water-tax was not exclusively from premises in the city. Further hearing of the suit has been adjourned to 28th February with a view to enable the parties to arrive at a settlement.

Mr. M. C. Setalvad and Mr. C. K. Daphary instructed by Messrs. Zaidwalla and Co. appeared for the plaintiff. Sir Jamshedji Kanji and Mr. B. J. Desai instructed by Messrs. Crawford Bayley and Co. appeared for the defendants.

Can Assignor Of Policy
Sue The Company?(Before the Hon. Mr. Justice Chagla)
S. H. Deshpande .. Plaintiff.
Versus
The Trust of India Assurance Co., Ltd. & Another .. Defendants.

The plaintiff had taken out an endowment life policy for Rs. 2,000 with the defendant-company on the joint lives of himself and his wife which he assigned to the second defendant who got the assignment duly registered with the defendant-company. The plaintiff's wife died in January 1940 and he filed this suit to recover the amount of the policy, making the assignee a party defendant as he refused to join as plaintiff.

The interesting question which arose was whether or not the plaintiff was entitled to maintain this suit once he had assigned away the policy to the second defendant.

His Lordship held that under Section 130 of the Transfer of Property Act on the execution of the assignment of the policy all the rights and remedies of the assignor in respect of the policy vested in the assignee who alone could sue the defendant company. His Lordship observed that in India, it made no difference in law whether the assignment was absolute or by way of security only. His Lordship therefore held that the plaintiff's suit was not maintainable and dismissed it.

Muslim Religious Sentiment
OutragedPROTEST AGAINST REMARKS
IN "PAINTING IN ISLAM"

A meeting of protest against the book called "Painting in Islam" by Sir Thomas W. Arnold printed at Oxford University Press, was held by the Anjuman-Talim-ul-Islam at the office of Kambecker Street under the presidency of Mr. A. S. Kably, Advocate. It was attended by a large gathering of Muslims, Moulvies (Ulemas) also took part in the meeting.

Mr. Kably said that the book contained imaginary sketches of the Prophet Mahomed and the other saints of Islam which were highly objectionable and provocative, idolatry and picturisation were unknown to Islam. The very sight of the pictures in the book injured the religious feelings of the whole Muslim community leading to a definite agitation. The public peace would not be safe and inter-communal good feeling would be greatly hampered if such a publication were allowed to run on the market.

He was surprised to see the slackness shown by the department concerned in allowing this publication which militated against the inherent principles of Islam. He earnestly requests the Government to ban this book and order the copies to be forfeited to Government to prevent the religious feelings of Muslims being hurt.

Alleged Murder Case At Chowk

Within a week of his appointment, Mr. Valanju, the CID officer appointed to investigate the alleged murder case at Chowk, involving the life of shirdhar Ramdas Kaprekar has been able to detain some suspects. It is understood that on February 21, one Budhya Nathoo Dukre offered to locate the place where he said Kaprekar's dead body was lying. Inspector Valanju accompanied by Pinchas went there. While pretending to show the place, Budhya Dukre is reported to have attempted to take a plunge from a precipice about 150 feet high from the valley below and later also tried to run away. He was not allowed to do so and sent for treatment to the Khulapur Dispensary. Some other suspects also tried to run away but did not succeed. Inspector Valanju is carrying on the work of inquiry.

MRS. BERNARD SHAW'S WILL

An Interview With G. B. S.

LONDON. (By Cable).—Mrs. Bernard Shaw, hale and hearty at 87 and dressed in a grey Norfolk suit, gave me a breezy interview of five minutes at his home at St. Lawrence when I spoke to him about his wife's will, writes a "News Chronicle" reporter.

Mrs. Shaw has left £154,967, most of it to the people of Ireland. The money is to be used for education in self-control, elocution, deportment, arts of personal contact and other arts of public, private, professional and business life.

I saw Mr. Shaw in his lounge. He paced up and down impatiently and was anxious to terminate the interview, which had only just begun. "All you can say is this," he said, stroking his flowing white beard. "That the will does not come into operation until I am dead. Mr. Shaw roared these words at me with such vigour that I could not fail to hear them."

"All Ireland has been getting at me about this will," he went on. "I don't want you to make that clear. I would not care if the will came into operation straightaway, but there it is. It is no good your asking me about Mrs. Shaw's attitude towards Ireland. I have no idea how her spirit will be observed in Ireland I observe in England."

Mr. Shaw was referring to the wording of Mrs. Shaw's opinion expressed in the will that many people are handicapped by vulgarities of speech and other social defects. He had no idea how the will would be administered.

"That is a job," he said, "for the trustees—when I am dead." By this time he was standing at the door. There was an ominous silence, a fixed glare at me, and then out it came. "I am trying to put you out politely," Mr. Shaw said to me. "I am trying to put you out politely." Mr. Shaw said to me. "I am trying to put you out politely." Mr. Shaw said to me. "I am trying to put you out politely."

In her will published a few days ago, Mrs. Shaw left £154,967 gross (net, personally £150,976). The duty paid amounts to £4,000.

Mrs. Shaw, who was formerly Miss Payne Townsend of Derry, Cork, expressed a desire that she should be cremated and her ashes should be scattered on Irish ground; that no flowers should be sacrificed and no black clothes worn and no memorial service held at her funeral. (The body was cremated at Golders' Green, London, only Mrs. Shaw and his secretary being present.)

Mrs. Shaw left letters written to her by Col. T. E. Lawrence (at St. Lawrence) in the British Museum to the British Museum. She bequeathed £1,000 to Lord Passfield (formerly Mr. Sidney Webb), her father's husband, and the residue on trust for him for life. After family legacies and annuities for servants she gave the following directions for the disposal of the remainder:

"In the course of my long life I have had many opportunities of observing the extent to which the most highly instructed and capable persons have their efficiency defeated and their influence limited for want of any organised instruction and training for personal contact, whether with individuals or popular audiences without which their knowledge is incommunicable (except through books) and how the authority which their abilities should give them is made derisory by their awkward manners and how their employment in positions for which they have valuable qualifications is made socially impossible by vulgarities of speech and other defects as easily corrigible as simple illiteracy; whereas my experience and observation have convinced me that lack of such training produces not only much social friction but grave pathological results, which seem quite unconnected with it, and that social intercourse is a fine art with a technique which everybody can and should acquire."

"Now with a view to furthering and carrying out the objects which I have at heart," she left the remainder to the National City Bank Limited, Dublin, as a special trustee, the income to be applied in making grants to any foundation body, institution, association or fund now existing or coming into existence during the lives of the issue now living of the late King George V and 21 years after having as its object: (1) the bringing of masterpieces of fine art within reach of the people of Ireland; (2) teaching, promotion and encouragement in Ireland of control, elocution, deportment, arts of personal contact, of social intercourse and other arts of public, private, professional and business life; and (3) establishment and endowment of any educational institution in or promoting study by the general public of these subjects."
